Biographical note

Professor Yvonne Galligan leads the Equality, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI) Directorate in Technological University Dublin. She is also Professor of Comparative Politics with a growing interdisciplinary research team on equality, diversity and inclusion issues based in TU Dublin. She has over 25 years' experience in higher education. She specialises in the study of gender equality in politics and public life. In recent years she has deployed the analysis of women in the public sphere to interrogate the gendered nature of higher education. Throughout her career, she has advised governments, political parties and many private organisations on strategies for success to bring about greater equity and inclusion.
